城市介紹 | INTRODUCTION OF THE CITY

Manizales, Colombia, is a mountain city in the central Andes where gastronomy, coffee culture, knowledge and entrepreneurship come together. As part of the UNESCO-listed Coffee Cultural Landscape, it is the only Colombian capital city included in this World Heritage area, known for its high-altitude specialty coffees, strong rural-urban links, and distinctive food traditions. Its gastronomy sector includes 1,741 businesses and 12,847 jobs, reflecting a dynamic ecosystem that connects producers, traditional cooks, restaurants, universities, and creative entrepreneurs.

With a strong university identity and active public-private collaboration, Manizales promotes innovation, talent development, tourism competitiveness, and new market opportunities. Its 80-year-old Market Square remains a living hub for local ingredients, trade, and culinary exchange. Today, Manizales is positioning gastronomy not only as heritage, but also as a platform for cooperation, investment, sustainable tourism, and international partnerships. It is a welcoming city where culture, business, and creativity create meaningful opportunities for visitors, institutions, and companies seeking to connect, collaborate, and grow.
